

WATERPROOF, CRUSHPROOF AND PENGUIN PROOF

The 1620 Peli case has proved to be waterproof, crushproof and now penguin proof! The destination was Antarctica . . . the coldest, most hostile, loneliest place on earth . . . with Camerawoman Claire L. Murphy. Claire chose Peli to withstand the extreme conditions that she would encounter in the Antarctic and to safely transport her valuable camera kit on this epic journey.

Claire had taken a position with The Antarctic Heritage Trust at Port Lockroy to monitor the various penguin colonies; run the charity gift shop and also work as a museum guide, giving introductory talks to visiting ships.

She lived and worked in a 1944 British military base with the world's most southerly public Post Office on this tiny island in the middle of a 1,500 Gentoo penguin colony.

“When choosing a case to transport my beloved camera gear to Antarctica for four months, there was never a question of brand. The only difficulty I had was choosing which model of Peli case. I needed protection for my video camera, external microphone, laptop, hard drives, SLR camera and lenses.

The 1620 Peli case with its internal padded dividers protected all my equipment from freezing temperatures and indoor humidity, and gave me security and peace of mind whilst living in the harshest continent in the world.”
